Passage of Zoning Act Asked

Citizens Cheer Appeal of Norgord and Gill at Hearing

Immediate passage of the zoning ordinance as a remedy for Madison city planning evils was asked by a number of citizens who appeared before the plan commission at its public meeting held at the city hall Friday night. Though some changes were asked they were all of a minor nature such as the changing of small districts or sections of districts.

C. P. Norgord appealed to the commission, aldermen and citizens present not to obstruct the passage of the ordinance as it is badly needed by the city.

"When a district is purchased for and built up as a residential district it is a burning shame that parties are allowed to invade the territory and build a butcher shop or grocery store among these homes and spoil its value and use for residential purposes," Mr. Norgord stated.

Former Ald. George Gill, instigator of the zoning plan while a city father, also took the floor in favor of the ordinance, and spoke in favor of the ordinance.

A petition was submitted at the meeting signed by 150 residents of University ave., asking that the block in which the Kennedy Dairy Co. is now located, be changed from light industrial to D commercial. This change increases the height limit to 45 feet and prevents such industries as the dairy company from relocating in the district. Provisions of the ordinance permits the company to remain during the life of the building occupied. Stores and garages may be built in a D commercial area.

A meeting of the commission will be held Friday afternoon to discuss changing of the district east of the Yahara river and south of Atwood ave.

Woman Who Was Given Jail Sentence Is Now At Liberty; Was Sent up for Six Months

Mrs. Sam Wrend, 407 Oakridge ave., who was fined $1,300 and sentenced to serve six months in the county jail on May 18, after being found guilty by a jury in Superior court of violation of the state prohibition law, has been out of jail for some time although her term has not yet expired.

It was the first time that she had been convicted under the state dry act. Her husband had been in court several times on the same charge, but had never been convicted.

Mrsfl Wrend began serving her sentence immediately, but shortly after it was stated that she was attacked by rheumatism and was taken to the General hospital She stayed there about three weeks. Then, it is claimed, doctors told Judge A. C. Hoppmann that her condition was such that confinement in the jail would be injurious at that time, and she was allowed to go to her home for a week. She then returned to the jail.

Since that time she has been allowed to return home about three times, either on account of her condition or in order to allow her to care for her children, according to Judge Hoppmann.

She was freed two weeks ago, after she had served five months and three days of a six months' term on orders by Judge Hoppmann. He declared that he did it because of her condition and for the good of her children, who had been suffering from lack of care in their mother's absence.

At the time of her release, Wrend paid $1,000 on his wife's fine. As part of the fine was paid shortly after the trial, there remains about $200 to be paid, according to Judge Hoppmann.

Under the statutes, the only person who can order a prisoner released after being sentenced is the governor.

Standard Oil Avoids Fight on Market Law

Pushes Court Attack On Rebating Order of Department

The Standard Oil Co. of Indiana late yesterday completed its arguments against orders of the Wisconsin department of markets directing it to discontinue rebating practices in this state, without attacking constitutionality of the general marketing statute. Judge Oscar M. Fritz of Milwaukee took the case under advisement.

While withholding their attack from the marketing law itself, attorneys for the Standard Oil Co., described the statute as "patchwork." Smatterings of the powers included under the federal Sherman Anti-Trust act, federal trade commission act and the Clayton act, were said to be included in the one Wisconsin statute.

Alvin C. Reis, counsel for the department of markets, defended the statutes, and contended that the Standard Oil company, through its system of pump and property leases for the sale of gasoline was attempting to destroy competition.

NORTHROP FIELD, Minneapolis—Ten thousand fans had passed through the gates by 12:15, taking no chances of losing their reserved seats to persons holding general admission tickets.

There were no ducats available and hundreds of Wisconsin rooters who decided at the last minute to attend the day's grid classic were clamouring at the gates around noon time for admittance.

It rained continuously for about two hours this morning and a downpour Friday night has also had its effect on the sward. The gridiron is on a sandy soil, however, and the rains have not had the effect it might on another field.

"Doc" Williams, dethroned Minnesota coach, who directed the destinies of the Maroon and Gold for many years, watched from the press box. It was the first time in 20 years that he has not primed the Gopher team for their annual game with the Badgers.

At 1 o'clock the Wisconsin band marched on to the field to the strains of "On Wisconsin," and was given a big welcome by the thousands who crowded the stands.

Coach Richards came on to the field at 1:30 with Jim Brader and judging from their gestures were not satisfied with the condition of the gridiron.

The Gophers were first on the field, coming out for warming up exercises at 1:35 p. m.

25,000 Hear LaFollette Hit Stalwarts

Senator Is Given Ovation

Crowds Cheer "Fighting Bob" for Stand In War Record

(By Special Correspondent of The Capital Times.)

ST. PAUL, Minn.—On the same spot where he delivered his famous speech five years ago, which caused his enemies to attempt to expel him from the senate, Senator Robert M. La Follette last night was welcomed by a crowd of nearly 25,000 at the St. Paul auditorium, and acclaimed the national leader of the progressive movement.

A crowd of 15,000 jammed the huge auditorium and every nook and corner was occupied before the speakers arrived. Workmen with their dinner pails stopped on their way to their homes and remained until the meeting was over at 11 o'clock. Outside a crowd of 10,000 surged impatiently for hours vainly seeking a chance to get into the hall.

Two blocks away another meeting was scheduled for a small hall seating about 2,500. Minneapolis and St. Paul had been plastered with posters advertising addresses by Senator Frank B. Kellogg and Gov. Preus.

Senator Kellogg, who led the fight in the senate to drive Robert M. La Follette from public life, suffered the humiliation in his home city of seeing thousands flock to do honor to "Fighting Bob" while his own hall was shunned.

Senator La Follette did not arrive until 9 o'clock. The auditorium rose and cheered as he fought his way down the center aisle, and shouts of "La Follette for President" rang from beam to beam.

Dr. Henrik Shipstead had just taken his seat after Philip La Follette, the senator's youngest son, had thrilled the audience with a brilliant 10 minute speech.

"About five years ago I made a speech in this hall," Senator La Follette commenced. "All that I then said has been demonstrated to be true, not one word, not one syllable of my utterance do I need to or will I ever retract or modify in the slightest degree. If the theme that I then discussed were an issue in this campaign I would glory to discuss it. I have just come out of a campaign in Wisconsin in which the reactionaries injected into their platform an arraignment of my attitude toward the war. I took up the war issue in Wisconsin and cuffed the heads of those fellows up into a peak.

"I came here to discuss issues that are before the people and not behind them."

The audience applauded several minutes when the senator said, "I would not exchange my record on any question relating to the war with any living man anywhere on the face of the earth."

I am going to speak here of the dawn of a new tomorrow when Minnesota, joining hands with Wisconsin, will give notice to the great middle west that the group of states at the headwaters of the Mississippi are now as they have always been the most progressive commonwealths of the union.

"A senator like Kellogg is just as detrimental to the interests of Wisconsin as to Minnesota," La Follette declared. "We bring to you tonight the assurance that when you are fighting the good fight you can call for reserves and the new iron brigade of Wisconsin will come to your support."

Senator La Follette opened the body of his address by taking his audience back to the fundamentals of democratic government. "Whether you like the masses of this country or not, whether you think they have sufficient culture or intelligence or not," he said, "this government belongs to the mass of the American people. Not a sacrifice has ever been made from the beginning of our history that has not been made to maintain that principle.

La Follette quoted Washington, Madison, Jefferson and Lincoln to show that the original principles of the government and of the Republican and Democratic parties have been perverted.

"My friends," he said, "I have often been criticised because I will not compromise. If I had lived in the time of Clay and Webster I wouldn't have been for the Missouri compromise, which dug the graves in the great conflict over slavery which was then merely postponed. I take my lickings when they come and buck the line again, rather than give up a principle. The menace to this republic is not from any foreign enemy. There is no danger the position of this country is impregnable. I say to you my friends that if this country is ever destroyed it will be by the cause which has led every other nation that has died to its destruction: Corruption from within.

"The widest liberty for the individual and equality for the children of men are the twin principles of American democracy.

"For fifty years at least when De Toqueville wrote we gave the lie to the previous histories of democracy. For fifty years at least we remained a government of the people."

Viscount Bryce fifty years later found "great corporations corrupting state and national government," the senator declared.

"I stand on the principles of Abraham Lincoln, I believe in Lincoln's kind of republicanism. I don't believe in Harding's kind of republicanism." La Follette declared.

This statement provoked prolonged applause.

"If this country goes much farther along the path it is now being directed by the interests that control both of the old parties we are going on the rocks," continued Senator La Follette.

"I have always maintained in Wisconsin that it was easier to whip 25 or 30 corrupt leaders out of the Republican party than it was to form a new party. I went down to Washington with the idea that we could nationalize this movement but perhaps you people in Minnesota who have formed the Farmer Labor party have hit upon the right plan.

"I do know that in the Republican party they can't ram a candidate like Kellogg down my throat.

"I have arrived at a time in life when I regard my participation in political campaigns as a favor of God and I have no time to waste upon Republicans who betray the people."

Midway through his address Senator La Follette paused and asked, "Will it be offensive if I take off my coat?"

The crowd laughed and applauded and "Fighting Bob' stripped to his shirt sleeves to turn to the task of reading the record on Kellogg. He had already spoken for an hour and a half. He devoted another hour to attacking Senator Kellogg for his votes for the Esch-Cummins Law, the Tariff Bill, the Taxation Bill of 1921 and his support of Newberry.

Senator La Follette will continue his stumping tour in Minnesota until the very eve of election, he decided last night after his meeting at Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Gov. J. J. Blaine has also been called into the state to campaign for the Progressive candidates. The governor will probably speak Sunday and Monday and the senator will speak tonight at Rochester. All the meetings will be held in the congressional district of Sydney Anderson, a former Progressive who is now allied with the Lenroot group of reactionaries at Washington. It is also likely that Congressman Joseph D. Beck of Viroqua may cross over the Mississippi from his district to do battle in Minnesota.

Senator La Follette will attend the Wisconsin-Minnesota football game this afternoon before resuming the stump.

He declared at the outset that Kellogg has "all his life been the Hireling of corporations".

Your senator has served so obsequiously and so long doing the will of his masters that God Almighty has given him a hump on his back, La Follette said, referring to Kellogg's characteristic stoop.

La Follette related how Kellogg served the Steel trust and the Harvester trust before he entered the senate.

"The best that can be said of Kellogg is that he has served these powerful trusts just as well in the senate as he served them in the courts," La Follette said.

"Here is a man," the Senator remarked, turning to Dr. Shipstead, "who hasn't got a corporation service back of him to twist his soul and befuddle his conscience. The little handfull of Progressives down there are lonesome, we want him in the place of a man who votes against the interests of the people and for the special interests."

Rollie Williams Named U.W. Senior President; Wanzer Is Elected Prom Chairman

Election Ends Hot Fight; Wayne Morse Trails Williams

Gordon Wanzer

Rollie Williams

Gordon B. Wanzer, Chicago, was elected chairman of the 1924 Junior Prom, Rolland F. Williams was elected president of the senior class and William J. Fronk was elected head of the junior class in the election held yesterday. The heaviest vote in the history of the university was polled.

James R. Flickinger was elected freshman class president and Gene Tuhtar, elected by default, heads the sophomore class.

Robert Aspinwall was elected graduate member of the student senate, and Maynard W. Brown, Lucius P. Chase, Earle Gill, Herbert D. Hentzen, and Oscar E. Kiessling were elected senior representatives.

Junior representatives elected to the senate were: Harold A. Seering, Edgar A. Smith, and Wilbur Wittenburg. Llewellyn R. Cole and Richard Ingraham were elected from the sophomore class.

Malcolm Millar was elected to Union board, and Robert Stewart was elected to forensic board.

A splitting of tickets in the senior class was evident as soon as returns began to come in. Williams and Tebell the two football candidates on the ticket were elected by a decisive vote while the Morse ticket swept the rest of the field. The nine candidates affiliated with the Wanzer-Fronk ticket in the junior class were all elected.

The referendum vote making Cardinal representation on the Student senate subject to the choice of the Cardinal Board of Control instead of the managing editor occupying the position automatically was passed by a vote of 525 to 388.

The vote to have representation on the senate by colleges rather than by classes passed by a vote of 810 to 580. This system provides that 9 to 11 members shall be elected to the senate, at least one from each college. One graduate student not a member of the faculty, and the ranking male officer of the freshman class also will be members.

RICHMOND, Va.— The body of Thomas Nelson Page, former ambassador to Italy, lawyer and author, was taken to Washington today for burial after funeral services here. Tenants on the farms of the Page family were pall-bearers.

Expect Easy Victory for Progressives

Concede Quiet Campaign Will End in Endorsement of Primary

(By the Associated Press)

MILWAUKEE — The political campaign in Wisconsin following the overwhelming vote of the Progressive Republican ticket headed by United States Senator Robert M. La Follette has been the quietest in many years, it being generally conceded that next Tuesday's vote will be a ratification of the primary endorsement as far as the senior senator and state ticket are concerned.

Senator La Follette's principal opponent is Jessie Jack Hooper of Oshkosh, who failed to qualify as a Democratic party candidate at the primary and is in the race as an Independent Democrat.

Adolph R. Buchnam represents the Prohibition party in the three cornered race.

The efforts of Senator La Follette since the primary have been directed in Wisconsin principally in behalf of George J. Schneider for congress in the ninth district, who is opposed by Judge Henry Graass running as an independent Republican. Mr. La Follette also campaigned for the election of Joseph Barber for the state senate in the 25th district. Barber is opposed by Ralph E. Smith running as an Independent Republican.

In the congressional race outside of the 9th. district, interest centers chiefly in the contests in the 4th. and 5h. districts, Edgund T. Melms and Victor L. Berger, Socialists seeking election. Berger, who twice was refused his seat in congress, following his election, has but one opponent, Wm. H. Stafford, Republican incumbent, John M. Callahan having withdrawn.

Melms is opposed by John C. Schaeffer, Republican.

Indications point to the election of at least nine Republicans to congress from Wisconsin with the fourth and fifth districts considered doubtful. Of those seeking re-election, four are considered "dry" by the Superintendent of the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon League, who claims Congressman Cooper of the First District, Nelson of the Third, Browne of the Eighth and Frear of the tenth are in favor of prohibition legislation.

Miss Martha Riley, Dem., seeks election to congress in the third district over J. M. Nelson, incumbent.

Gov. Blaine is conceded control of the lower house of the legislature, the outcome in the state senate being looked upon as very close with a number of hold-over senator's figuring in the anti-La Follette column. In any event, anti-saloon officials predict they will have enough supporters in the legislature to prevent any adverse legislation.

Three proposed constitutional amendments will be voted upon, one permitting sheriffs to succeed themselves; another providing that cities may increase bonded indebtedness and a third would permit five sixth of a jury to render a verdict in civil court cases.

Clean-Up Week Opens New Roads

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—The Milwaukee Journal's tour department week end road review says:

The past week has been clean-up week on the construction jobs in southeastern Wisconsin. For the first time in 3 years highway 50 from Kenosha to New Munster has opened up, giving a concrete road to that point.

Highway 41 out of Waukesha has opened up with concrete as far as Wales. However, it is still closed between Sullivan and Jefferson, this stretch being scheduled to open in a week or so.

A good combination to Madison is 41 to Waukesha, 59 to Eagle, 99 to Whitewater, 12 to Fort Atkinson, 106 to Albion, 100 to the intersection of ten and ten to Madison. A fairly good dirt road and good in dry weather only, is highway 19 to Goerke's corner and county trunk B. through to Madison. Highway 19 straight through is open and fairly good.

The opening of highway 31 between Seven Mile Creek and Waupun gives a concrete road from Fond du Lac to Waupun, and practically to Beaver Dam, there being but a few miles of dirt road on this stretch.

Highway 36 is concrete to Burlington and for an almost all concrete road to Lake Geneva highway 20 over to Elkhorn and 12 down to Lake Geneva is recommended. To La Crosse the best choice would be any of the above combination to Madison, 12 to New Lisbon and 21 to La Crosse.

New Method of Reducing Fat

A news item from abroad informs us that the American method of producing a slim, trim figure is meeting with astonishing success. This system, which has made such a wonderful impression over there, must be tht Marmola Prescription Tablet method of reducing fat. It is safe to say that we have nothing better for this purpose in this country. Anything that will reduce the excess flesh steadily and easily without injury to tht stomach, the causing of wrinkles, the help of exercising or dieting or interference with one's meals is a mighty important and useful addition to civilization's necessities. Just such a catalogue of good results follow the use of these pleasant, harmless and economical little fat reducers. We say economical because Marmola Prescription Tablets (made in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription) can be obtained of any druggist the world over or from the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich., for one dollar a case, which is a decidedly economical price, considering the number of tablets each case contains. They are harmless.—Adv.

Men Surpass Women In Control, Is Claim

That men surpass women when it comes to powers of control is the opinion of Miss Julia Downey, professor of phychology in the University of Wyoming, who delivered a general lecture open to all students at 4:30 Wednesday afternoon in 165 Bascom hall. Miss Downey based her lecture on her handwriting tests.

"Handwriting is the only test where the men are a great deal better than the women," said Miss Downey, speaking of the test for control, in which the 'subject' must write a given phrase taking the longest time possible, and still keeping the pen point moving all of the time. There are 'subjects' whom Miss Downey has tested who have taken as long as 45 minutes to write a phrase, and who have, during the whole period not let the pen stop moving.

Stoeber Hospital, Although "Infant" in Years, Forges Ahead in Modern Methods

Obstetrical Room at Stoeber Hospital

Beneath huge sheltering elm trees, in a quiet residence, 209 Wisconsin ave., is located the Stoeber maternity hospital, already well known as one of the most quiet, efficient and most home-like hospital of its kind in this part of the state.

The Stoeber hospital was started about four years ago by Miss Mary Stoeber, a nurse. Its first home was on W. Washington ave., near the Madison General hospital. Soon after, the need for more room necessitated the purchase of a larger building and the property at 209 Wisconsin ave. was bought. Miss Stoeber died in 1918 and the property came into the hands of the Methodist hospital association.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Stubler purchased the hospital from the Methodist association last May.

Under the direction of Mrs. Stubler, herself a nurse of long experience, and a staff of six registered nurses the institution has acquired a reputation for efficiency and courtesy. It has been Mrs. Stubler's aim to make it the best place of its sort in this part of the state. To that end she has purchased new equipment of the most modern type.

Realizing that one of the most necessary requirements for the rapid recovery of the mother after confinement is proper food and nourishment administered, Mrs. Stubler has had more than 800 gallons of canned fruits, jellies, and jams preserved especially for this purpose.

A new electric "incubator", the only one of its kind in this city, was installed last summer. A gas machine for obstetric purposes has also been added recently. New instruments, cribs and furniture were purchased at the time that Mr. and Mrs. Stubler bought the institution.

Mrs. Stubler spoke of the human side of the hospital business this afternoon.

"The first thing a mother thinks of when her babe has been born is to tell the world about it," she said. "Every mother that comes here makes it her special business to tell us that she wants the announcement of her baby's birth made public."

If business at the Stoeber hospital continues to increase in the future as it has since last May a new building will probably be purchased to accommodate the increasing demands.

Love for Mother Shatters Romance

BAY CITY, Mich.—Love for her mother, who is in a serious condition at her home in Wausau, Wis., proved, temporarily at least, stronger than the affection that pretty Selma Kuehl, 18 years old, had bestowed on her sweetheart and separated two youthful lovers.

Selma's knowledge of the ways of the world may be judged by the fact that in coming here from Wausau she took her first ride in a railroad train, she told police.

Selma and Millard Keisner, 19 years old, were apprehended here after they had run away from Wausau with the intention of getting married in Bay City. They hesitated a little, but too long. Friday night Selma is on her way back to Wausau, in company with her brother, while Millard remains disconsolate in Bay City, his romance shattered.

Blaine Denies Hé Will Push Probe

MILWAUKEE—Gov. J. J. Blaine arriving in Milwaukee late Friday afternoon to deliver a speech in the south side armory, denied that he will suspend or ask the suspension or resignation of any county officials in connection with a grand jury investigation into alleged "graft." The governor admitted that he held a conference with Special Prosecutor Frank T. Boessl on Thursday, but he said that he had no appointment to meet either Mr. Boesel or Special Prosecutor George Hudnall during his stay in the city.

The statutes covering suspensions of officials the governor pointed out, provide that some resident or taxpayer must first file a petition and make charges, which charges the official may answer and then demand a public hearing, the governor said.

Ex-Kaiser to March to Altar to Tune of Family Organ

(By the Associated Press)

DOORN, Holland — Impressed with the marked disapproval shown by friends of the late Empress Augusta and monarchist circles toward his coming marriage to the Princess Hermine of Reuss, former Emperor William has decided to eliminate certain features of the Sunday festivities.

One of the plans abandoned is that of engaging an orchestra to play the wedding music. He has decided to content himself with strains from the family organ. The musical program includes Mendelssohn's Wedding March and the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin.

No guests will be allowed at the civil ceremony, to be performed in the lodge at the entrance to Doorn house, with the exception of Count Von Moltke, marshal of the ex-Kaiser's "court," and the official witnesses. The guests will await the return of the bridal couple from the lodge in the main hall of the castle, where Dr. Vogel, former court chaplain, will solemnize the religious ceremony. After this Hermine will ceremoniously receive the title "Queen of Prussia."

The apartment on the ground floor of Doorn house where the ex-Kaiserin died has not been opened, and Hermine's apartment is on the second floor, separated by a small boudoir from the ex-Kaiser's room.

There will be six witnesses at the civil marriage, as follows. Count Van Lynden Van Sandenburg, grand chamberlain of the Dutch court and governor of the province of Utrecht; J. B. Kan, governmental general secretary; Count Charles Aldenburgh Bentinck of burlestein; Count C. L. Von Der Goltz, German general now living at Arnheim; Jonkheer Van Den Bosch, mayor of Amerongen, and the German captain, Sigmund Von Ilsemann, formerly William's adjutant, who married Countess Elizabeth Bentinck and who now resides at Amerongen.

Three short months ago Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Parr were married and went to live in the cozy love nest they had arranged in a fashionable Chicago apartment. After reading the torrid phrases in the letter she decided to "end it all" and drank poison. She has recovered from the poison but her beauty is ruined—scarred and seared by the poison. Fitzpatrick Sees Expansion At University in 30 Years

Thirty thousand students will be attending the university in 1950 at the present rate of increase, according to Maj. Edward A. Fitzpatrick, secretary of the state board of education, who addressed the Woman's club Friday.

"There has not been in this state any adequate support of comprehensive planning for education," Mr. Fitzpatrick said in his speech on "Making a State Educational Program for Wisconsin."

Considering that $50,350,000 were spent for education in this state in 1920 and that $39,000,000 of this comes from public taxes, it would be only reasonable to organize education along the lines of industry. An industry would have formed long ago a "planning department" which would be free from any activity in order to give its whole energy and attention to a consideration of these problems, according to Major Fitzpatrick.

The State Board of Education has been making an effort to secure the establishment of junior colleges all over the state. University professors will have a better opportunity for research in this way, and the administrative officers will be relieved. Moral oversight of the students may also be better handled by this plan of decentralization.

"Lay educational evangelism" as an antidote to the average American's simple faith in the magic of machinery and organization as such, was recommended in a final plea:

"The permanent success within the last analysis depends upon an intelligent lay interest in education."

To Clean Garment of Rain Spots — Marks caused by rain appear on cloth unless steps are taken to prevent this. By far the best plan is as soon as possible to go over the whole of the material with a silk handkerchief, rubbing rather lightly and always in the same direction. Beaver or velour hats that have been spotted with rain should be given a light brushing and then put in a cool, airy place to dry.

Before stitching such materials as khaki and heavy duck and canvas, rub the hems and seams with hard yellow soap and the needle will easily penetrate.

STAR WITNESS IN HALL CASE STICKS TO HER MULE

Mrs. Jane Gibson, her mule "Jenny" and Detective Totten.

Mrs. Jane Gibson, who lives 'down the road apiece" from the spot where the murdered bodies of Rev. Edward W. Hall of New Brunswick, N. J., and his choir leader, Mrs. James Mills, were found, is now the important figure in the investigation which so far has failed to result in an arrest outside of that of the boy, Clifford Hayes, who was freed. Mrs. Gibson, only recently told her story to the authorities, saying she hadn't bothered about the case because "they got what they deserved." She is rated as virtually an eyewitness. She says she had ridden on her mule to the locality of the murder to investigate robbery of her corn and chickens, heard the shot fired and heard Mrs. Mills cry a man's name. When detectives asked her to go to the scene of the crime she went—on her mule.

Coins of Croesus Worth Million Brought to U.S.

NEW YORK—Thirty small gold coins, believed to be among the first ever minted and possessing an intrinsic value estimated at more than $1,000,000, were brought to the United States Friday by George Horton, American consul general at Smyrna, who is on leave of absence.

The coins were entrusted to Mr. Horton's care after being unearthed in April by American archaeologists in the buried ruins of Saris, the ancient Lydian capital in Asia Minor. When Mr. Horton was forced to flee from the flames that swept Smyrna, the gold coins and his records were among the few things he was able to save.

The coins are of the mintage of Croesus, the last king of Lydia, and the first great international banker, whose name has been a symbol of wealth for nearly 2,500 years. They were coined some time between 561 B. C., when Croesus ascended the Lydian throne and 546, when he was captured by Cyrus, the Persian monarch. They were unearthed in the ruins of a tomb and thought by searchers to have been hidden by a wealthy Lydian when Saris was besieged.

CURED HIS RHEUMATISM

"I am eighty-three years old and I doctored for rheumatism ever since I came out of the army, over 50 years ago. Like many others, I spent money freely for so-called 'cures' and I have read about 'Uric Acid' until I could almost taste it. I could not sleep nights or walk without pain; my hands were so sore and stiff I could not hold a pen. But now I am again in active business and can walk with ease or write all day with comfort. Friends are surprised at the change." You might just as well attempt to put out a fire with oil as try to get rid of your rheumatism, neuritis and like complaints by taking treatment supposed to drive Uric Acid out of your blood and body. It took Mr. Ashelman fifty years to find out the truth. He learned how to get rid of the true cause of his rheumatism, other disorders, and recover his strength from "The Inner Mysteries," now being distributed free by an authority who devoted over twenty years to the scientific study of this trouble. If any reader of "The Capital Times" wishes "The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism" containing facts overlooked by doctors and scientists for centuries past, simply send a post card or letter to H. P. A busy week is ahead for Madison society. Numerous teas, luncheons, dances and private parties of all kinds are scheduled for the coming days, and the prospect of homecoming with its thousands of visitors is being duly planned for by Madison hosts.

One of the largest affairs of the early week is the dinner for members of the faculty of the College of Agriculture, which is to be held Monday night in Lathrop parlors by the Daughters of Demeter. Elaborate arrangements are being made for more than 160 guests who have made reservations to attend the second annual dinner.

Mrs. F. H. King, president of the Daughters of Demeter, will be chairman of the reception committee made up from past presidents of the organization. Mrs. A. R. Whitson is in charge of the entertainment committee, and Mrs. Frank B. Morrison of the decorations and place cards. Mrs. E. Friday afternoon a bridge luncheon was held at the home of Mrs. Kinne. Tuesday 35 guests will be entertained with a luncheon and thimble party at the home of Mrs. Kommers, and on Thursday there will be a 1 o'clock bridge-luncheon, also at Mrs. Kommers'. Some of Madison's Future Debutantes

Debutanteship doesnt' seem to rest very heavily on these curly heads. Many a society woman might well envy a pose like these, for it would be hard to choose the best from among them. They are: (top row, left to right) Barbara Marjorie Sauthoff, aged 2½, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Sauthoff, 819 Oakridge ave.; Virginia Alsheimer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Alsheimer, 606 Milwaukee st.; Gladys May Hammersley, aged 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hammersley, Route No. 6, west of the city; (lower row left) Kathleen Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Wright, 1332 E. Dayton st.; (right) Virginia Witte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Witte, Cottage Grove.

Little Miss Hammersley is the only one who seems to know that anything unusual is afoot, but that doesn't spoil the picture—far from it, we think. Perhaps your choice would be bigeyed Kathleen Wright, whose short-cropped hair gives promise that she may turn out to be a tom-boy instead of a debutante after all. Merry smiles and laughing eyes have little Misses Sauthoff and Alsheimer, but no less attractive is the swet pensiveness of the Witte baby.

"Approximately 30,000 students will be attending the university in 1950, if only the normal increase continues," he stated, and there is indication that the growth will be greater than that. We might as well be prepared a little in advance, and realize the advantages of the plan."

Club members were much interested in this junior college program outlined by Major Fitzpatrick and asked question after question concerning the practical working out of the matter. The speaker also touched in his talk upon the need for competent teachers, for localization of trade and technical schools to fit the special industries of different sections, and for a higher standard in rural high schools.

A Clinic for Religion

A spiritual clinic to treat the sickness of irreligion, to be established in every church, was advocated by Dr. William A. McKeever, editor of the Golden Rule Magazine, in an address here today before the Michigan State Sunday School association.

"Irreligion is a form of sickness of the soul resulting from repressed and retarded instincts and desires," said Dr. McKeever. "Psycho-analysis will become the chief instrument of service in the release of the sinner from the clutches of evil. By going into the sub-consciousness, finding the point where the instinct for worship and service was repressed, and by disentangling the retarded personality the religious clinic will in time do a marvelous work.

"The minister and thead of his Sunday School or its equivalent must become able character analysts. There will be a staff of trained workers attached to the church and through these the pathology of sin will become a science.

"When we learn—as in time we shall—to cure the soul through psycho-analysis and psychotherapy, the sickness of the body will virtually all disappear. The people thus healed will naturally acknowledge God as their Father and Christ as their Savior."

Do You Want Your Pocket Picked?

Well, that's exactly what will happen to you unless you watch your step when you go to the polls on November 7.

You are going to be asked to amend the State Constitution so as to permit any municipality to double its indebtedness, to acquire or build street railway properties, to buy properties for the production, transmission, delivery, or furnishing of light, heat, water or power to the public.

This means that 276 million dollars worth of property on which taxes are now being paid will become tax-exempt. Who will pay the taxes to the State and to the Government on that 276 million dollars? You will, Mr. Voter. You will fill up that money hole if you are sucker enough to vote "Yes" on this Amendment.

Get mad about being called a "sucker." Get mad enough to vote "No" on the most vicious piece of legislation that has been proposed since "Grape-juice" Bill Bryan pulled his unsafe, unsound, ridiculous 16 to 1 stuff.

If this Amendment passes it gives the politicians a free rein to buy a lot of broken-down utilities at fabulous prices, with your money.

The next step in the program is that the bonds now outstanding on these properties, and that would be issued by the municipalities to finance operations, would be tax-exempt.

Do you know just what tax-exempt means? It means a perfectly legal way for the millionaires to invest their money to avoid paying taxes.

But you, Mr. Farmer, Mr. Salaried-man, Mr. Cottage-owner, Mr. Laborer, you pay the taxes that they escape.

True, the bankers and the bond men will make a lot of money out of selling the new crop of tax-free securities, but there isn't any real good reason why you should line their pockets while yours are being picked.

Don't let anybody fool you into thinking that your increased taxes will be offset by a reduction in the cost of light, heat, power, water, or transportation. You recall how the railroads were operated by-guess and by-god during the war. You remember that ships which cost a couple of hundred thousand dollars each were sold by the Emergency Fleet Corporation for as low as $600.00 apiece.

You know that public-built utilities are built and developed at fancy prices that a private institution would never dream of paying. How do they get away with it? By the people casting their votes without thinking. By the voters authorizing a lot of tricky, shrewd, grafting politicians to make expenditures such as are proposed under the Amendment on the Pink Ballot.

Go to the Polls November 7 with a grim determination to

Vote "NO" on Doubling the Debt

Kill the Pink Ballot!

Can a Girl Dress Well on $100?

Eloise Asserts It is Easy If YouBuyRight

$94.50 Bought Neat But Practical Outfit for Fall, Winter

By ELOISE.

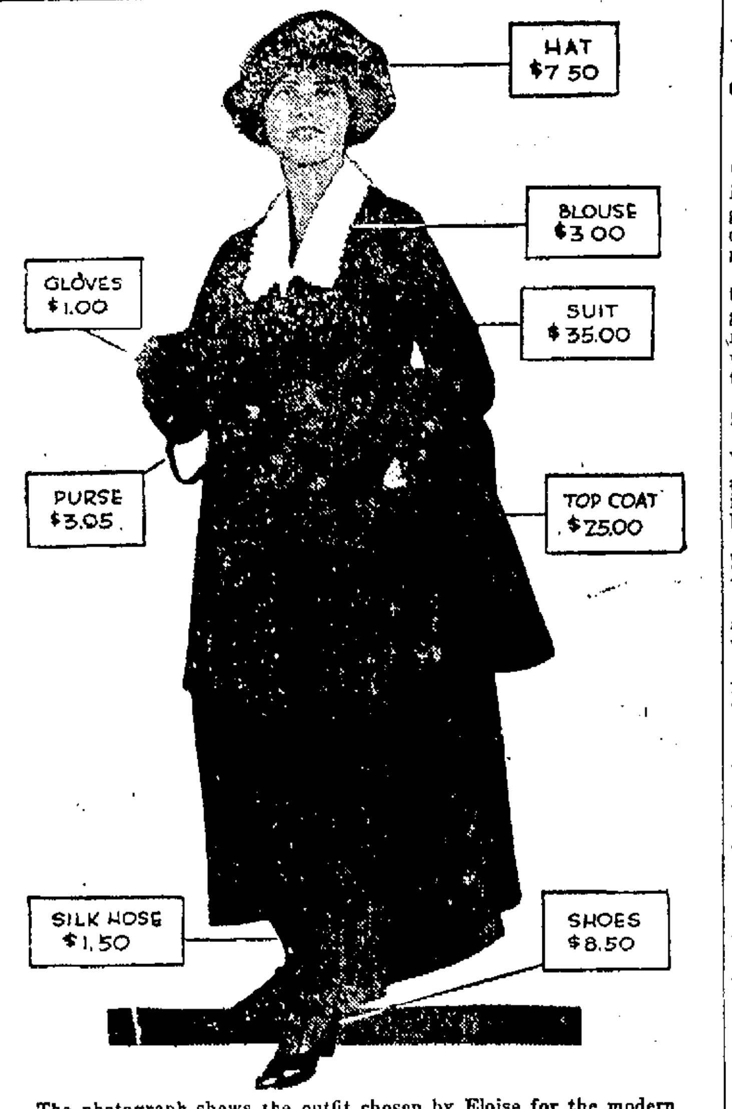
AFTER a day spent in viewing gorgeous fur wraps, Paris imported gowns, dazzling hats, and the very newest wrinkle in footwear, the question, can a girl outfit herself on $100, sounds like pure idiocy. But it can be done. I have proven it by taking a grand new, crisp $100 bill and spending a day in the New York stores. A smart and practical outfit for fall and winter purchased under my direction came to exactly $94.50.

Now, don't all shout at once. Of course, the same things could be purchased for less money but everything bought was of first class material, workmanship and style which means that the very best to be had for the price has been collected in this outfit. The lining of the suit, for instance is guaranteed for two seasons. The shoes come from one of the most reliable makers in the country and patent leather was chosen because it can be used for dress as well as business. The hat is more distinctive and therefore worth more than a cheaper hat which would have a thousand or more copies. In looking over these figures there must be taken into consideration the fact that few women must outfit themselves from the skin out each year. There are always such things as vests hose and chemises left over from the previous season.

Here is the neat, practical and at the same time up-to-date wardrobe which was selected from the stocks offered in various stores, and its total cost:

One all season hat	$ 7.50
One wasit blouse	3.00
One tailored suit	35.00
One top coa	25.00
One pair strap slippers	8.50
One pair silk hose	1.50
One purse	3.95
One pair gloves (long)	1.00
Three vests	1.05
Two brassieres	1.00
One rubber girdle	2.00
Three chemises	5.00
Total	$94.50

This left $4.50 from my nice new $100-bill and I hesitated between a silk overblouse with which to transform my suit into a dress, another tailored blouse for every day wear, handkerchiefs, another pair of hose, a hair net, a pair of rubbers and an umbrella. I have decided to leave the spending of that $4.50 to the discretion of the individual and more than likely nine out of ten women will spend at least part of it for a petticoat which fashion has long since said is really unnecessary.



The photograph shows the outfit chosen by Eloise for the modern business girl.

Billy Whiskers

By Frances Trego Montgomery

Billy was trying hard, you remember to turn the cart over and dump the pies. He came to a bridge without a railing, and at one side of which was a big stone. Billy made for this stone, intending to run into it and break loose from the cart. He ran into it all right, but instead of it releasing him from the cart, it rolled off the bridge and carried him with it. Kerplash! they went into the water, and as the creek was very much swollen with the recent rains they had been having, the swift current carried Billy, cart and all under the bridge and down the stream in a jiffy. The current was so swift and strong that he found he could not swim against it and, harnessed to the cart as he was, he knew he would soon be drowned if he did not get loose and became thoroughly frightened.

He had about given up hope when the cart hit a huge pile of rocks in midstream, which tore it loose from the shafts, releasing Billy and on down the stream the current carried him, while the cart stuck fast on the rocks.

He felt he could soon free himself had it not been for the shafts that were still fastened to him and which kept catching on stumps and rocks, holding him each time for a few minutes while the water poured over his head.

He was nearly drowned once when his head went under, but with a violent pull when his feet touched bottom, he wrenched himself loose and managed to keep above the water until he was washed up on the land where the stream made a sudden bend.

Here he lay perfectly exhausted for a while. At last he heard the boys running toward him, talking in great excitement as they came.

"Gee, Johnnie! I believe he is killed!" exclaimed Bobbie when he saw him. "See, he is lying still on the bank!"

When Billy heard this, he decided to play possum and make them think him dead.

"See, there is part of the cart over on that big rock in the middle of the stream," said Johnnie. "Perhaps he got washed up against it so hard that it knocked the breath out of him."

"Poor little fellow! Perhaps it did!" said Bobbie, all compassion.

"Oh, I am a poor little fellow, now you think me dead!" thought Billy. "And it hasnt been half an hour since you were wishing me dead. And just because I refused to pull that big black goat along after the cart!"

[Tomorrow you'll hear what the boys did when they thought Billy was dead.]

TODAY'S RECIPES

Eggs Baked on French Toast—Sliced dry bread, one cup milk, one egg, one-quarter teaspoon salt. Required number of eggs for baking. Beat one egg slightly, add one cup of sweet milk and salt. Dip slices of bread in this mixture and fry in bacon drippings in hot skillet until nicely browned on both sides. Carefully break one egg onto each slice of toast prepared in this manner. Season with salt and pepper. Place in oven until egg is firm. Dot with bits of butter and serve very hot.

Simmered Steak With Tomato And Onion Sauce—One thick round steak, three large tomatoes, three onions, one-half teaspoon salt one-eighth teaspoon pepper, celery salt (if desired). Brown steak on both sides in drippings. Add one half cup of water or broth. Place over very low gas fire and simmer for one hour, adding water when necessary to keep from burning. Then season well. Add finely chopped tomato and onions. Simmer one half hour longer. Serve steak on platter garnished with the sauce.

Cottage Cheese and Pepper Salad—Select necessary number of nicely shaped green peppers (two will serve three people). Wash and cut stem out carefully so seeds come out with it. Stuff full of cottage cheese (in which chopped olives may be added if desired). Slice crosswise in thin slices, Arrange on lettuce leaves and serve with mayonnaise dressing.

SUGGESTONS

Correct Way To Fill Hot Water Bottle—A hot water bottle need not be hard and clumsy when filled. Fill about half full then lay on the table until the water comes up to the top of the hold, then screw in the cork. This way expells all the air.

Use wood alcohol to clean piano keyes. Apply with a damp rag. Warm water, not hot water, and no soap may be used if you cannot obtain the wood alcohol.

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE THORN BUSH.

Copyright, 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

(By Howard R. Garis.)

"Wait a minute, Uncle Wiggily! Wait a minute!" called Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy as the bunny rabbit gentleman hopped down the steps of his hollow stump bungalow one morning.

"Eh? What's that? Some one at the telephone?" asked Uncle Wiggily, turning his ear toward the muskrat lady housekeeper and with the other listening for the telephone bell.

But no bell was ringing, and Nurse Jane said:

"It isn't the telephone, Uncle Wiggily. I just wanted you to wait a moment before you go adventuring. I want to ask you to bring me back a pound of sugar."

"I'll do that!" promised the bunny rabbit and then with a twinkle of his pink nose, for he was feeling very jolly that morning away he hopped over the fields and through the woods.

Uncle Wiggily had not gone very far before he heard some childish voices calling:

"Pull him this way!"

"No, pull him out the other way!"

"No, pull him out the other way!"

"Don't pull him! Push him is what we ought to do!"

"Don't push and don't pull! You're tearing me to pieces! Stop!"

This last cry was louder than any of the others.

"Goodness me, sakes alive and some apple butter ice cream!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "Those are some of the animal boys and girls, I'm sure. But whatever has happened?"

Uncle Wiggily hopped nearer to some bushes, from behind which the excited cries seemed to come, and there the bunny saw a strange sight.

Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the squirrels, and Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow, the puppy dog boys, were pulling at Floppy Twistytail, the little pig. Floppy was half hidden beneath a bush, and he was making as much noise as two little pigs caught under a gate.

"Pull him out!" barked Jackie Bow Wow.

"Push him out!" chattered Johnnie the squirrel.

"Let me alone!" squealed the piggie chap. "You're filling me full of stickers. Ouchie-wouchie!"

"Here! Here! What's the matter?" cried Uncle Wiggily, as he hopped toward the bush.

"Floppy crawled under the thorn bush to get the ball that rolled there when we were having a catch," explained Jackie.

"And now he can't get out," added Peetie.

"We're trying to pull him out," said Johnnie.

"And I think maybe we'd better push him instead of pulling," said Billie, the other squirrel boy.

"Don't do anything!" squealed Floppy. "This is a thorn bush and the thorns are sticking in me from all sides. If you pull me or push me they'll stick me all the worse. Help me out, Uncle Wiggily!" begged the piggie boy.

Uncle Wiggily put on his glasses and looked at the thorn bush. It was a bush with long, sharp stickery thorns, pointing in two ways. So that when some one was under the bush they could neither be pulled or pushed out, backward or forward, without being caught on the thorns.

"There is only one way to get Floppy out," said Uncle Wiggily. 'We must lift him straight up out of the middle of the bush. Then the thorns won't stick him. Straight up will do the trick."

They got a long pole, held it over the middle of the thorn bush and Floppy caught hold of it in his front paws. Then, all hoisting together, they lifted the piggie boy out of the thorn bush without scratching him.

"Run along now," advised Uncle Wiggily, "and don't crawl under any more thorn bushes."

The animal boys thanked the bunny and went off to play ball again. Ucle Wiggily hopped to the store and got the pound of sugar in a bag.

As Uncle Wiggily was hopping home, near the thorn bush, all of a sudden, out at his jumped the Woozie Wolf.

'This time I'll have your ears!" howled the Wolf.

Uncle Wiggily threw something under the thorn bush. The Wolf saw him do this.

"What did you throw under the bush?" asked the Wolf.

"Oh, just a pound of sugar," answered Uncle Wiggily, careless like. "It was only a pound of sweet sugar."

"Only a pound of sugar," howled the Wolf. "The idea. Don't you know I just love sugar with nibbled ears? Now I've got to crawl under the bush and get that sugar. After that I'll nibble your ears."

Not knowing the bush had thorns on it, the Wolf crawled under. This he could easily do from that side, as all the thorns pointed in. He picked up the bag of sugar, but when he tried to crawl out again to nibble the bunny's ears, the thorns, now pointing out, caught in the shaggy fur of the Wolf and held him fast.

"Oh, help me out. Help me out," howled the Wolf.

"Help you out to nibble my ears? Not much!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "You are welcome to the sugar—I can get more, but I can't get any new ears. Goodby!"

And away hopped the bunny, but the Wolf remained caught fast in the thornbush until his wife came in the night and dug a hole under the bush so he could crawl out.

Once again the rabbit gentleman fooled the Wolf. And if the straw hat doesn't come down out of the attic to hide in the pocket of the fur overcoat to get warm, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's coaster.

Mrs. Thompson's Advice

Heart and Home Problems

Engaged Couples Should Work Out Adjustments Before Marriage

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl sixteen years old and I have never been allowed to have boy friends although my sister started having them before she was as old as I am. My parents and my sister seem to think I am a baby and it will be a long time before I will be old enough to go with boys. My sister had a lot of boy friends and she is considered one of the most popular girls at school. She is a senior at high school.

One of the boys who has been coming to see her seemed to like me too and he would talk to me almost as much as he did to her. She didn't like this a bit and scolded me afterward. Now he has told me that he would really like to go with me and asked me if he might. I told him. I didn't know and would let him know later.

I told mother and father there was a boy who wanted to go with me and I asked them if they had any objection. They said he might come to see me on Saturday night once in a while, but I musn't neglect my school work and become boy crazy. I didn't say who the boy was.

Do you think it would be all right for me to surprise the family by telling this boy he may come to see me on Saturday night? Sister likes him, but she likes another boy better and I wouldn't be cutting her out. I would just love to let him come because every one would be so surprised. What shall I do?

DOROTHY ANNE.

Since the boy has asked to come and you have your parents' permission to let him, it will be all right to invite him for Saturday night. Naturally it is thrilling for you since you have such a surprise for the family.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please tell me what I can do to remove stain from my fingers. My fingers stain very easily just from preparing vegetables for my meals.

FANNIE.

Equal parts of lemon juice and peroxide of hydrogen make an excellent lotion to remove stain from the fingers.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man twenty-seven years old. For the past three year I have been going with a young woman who is very beautiful and good. I have fought against loving her, because our religions are very different, and I have thought marriage was impossible. About a year ago we were to be separated for about two months and I asked her to kiss me good bye. She told me that I was one of her dearest friends, but she could not let me kiss her and she thought I would understand why. I realized at that time that she meant the difference in our religions.

That separation was long enough to make me realize how much she meant to me. I knew then that sometime I would ask her to marry me, but still I fought against it. About a month ago, however, I did ask her and she accepted. We are trying to agree before hand about religious matters so that after marriage we will not have to talk about religion. I am perfectly willing that she should stick to hers, but I want to stick to mine too and she is willing I should do so.

Do you think we will be happy together since we both feel this way? I have agreed to be married in her church and bring up my children in her religion, and she has agreed to let me decide the matters of education aside from religious education.

TOM M.

It seems to me you have worked out your problem very well. Each is willing to respect the rights of the other, and that is the important thing. Of course it is impossible for me to assure you that you will be happy together. Only time can answer that.

The Ways of A Widow

By Grace Phelps

THE RECTOR MAKES PUBLIC THE DANCE PLANS.

Nan did not find an opportunity to lay the problem of Jimmie's Italian families before the Rev. Michael Sinclair as soon as she expected. There was no telephone in the rectory—the former incumbent detested the instrument and the new rector had not had his installed—and for once a feeling of reserve prevented her from going ahead immediately to carry out her plan, which would have involved another call on the Rev. Michael.

On Sunday, as she sat in her pew and watched old man Morgan go up the aisle, with the collection plate in his hand and looking as untroubled as a babe, she wondered if Jimmie's description of his hard heartedness could be true. It didn't seem possible that any man could be such a hypocrite.

The church was crowded, as it had been every Sunday since the new rector's arrival. By a discreet movement of her head Nan managed to locate most of her friends, many of whom were not members of St. Mark's but had come out of curiosity to see what the Rev. Michael Sinclair was like. Bert Weston, who cheerfully declared himself an agnostic, had come to church with her and Mrs. Norton. There was space left in the pew for Jimmie who might slip in later.

"I picked up the chap the other day," Weston had said to Nan as they were coming to church, "and if he hadn't had his collar buttoned on backward, I would have called him a regular fellow!"

That, Nan reflected, seemed to be the general verdict of the man. It may have been due in part to the report of his prowess as a boxer but every man in Greenbroar whom she had heard mention the newcomer, instinctively rated him as a man who feared nothing and who would dare anything. The man's strength was not one of body only but of mind and character. At least that was the impression he gave. Not even the vestments of his order lessened that impression. Rather, she thought, they increased it.

When he came forward to read the announcements for the week Nan, who had been lost momentarily in her reflections, came to herself with a start on hearing her own name spoken. She listened and as the strong, vibrant voice went on realized that the rector was announcing the dancing classes for the young people at which she had promised to assist.

There was no murmur of comment at this innovation but Nan felt curious glances directed her way and her ears burned. The young rector went on serenely outlining his plans for the Parish House, whose most frivolous use hitherto had been the Christmas entertainment or the occasional suppers given by the Ladies' Aid.

When the service was over Nan would have escaped quickly had not the door been blocked by parishioners who stopped over the handshake with the rector to tell him how much they liked or did not like his new plans. A buzz of even sharper dissension blocked the aisles and Nan was caught in it.

"It's quite all right for young people to dance but they ought to hire a hall for it." Ethel Grant was declaring to all who cared to listen. "I don't think the Parish House is the place for such things."

"It costs money to rent a hall." Helen Davenport reminded her. "I think it's a splendid idea and if Mrs. Murray needs any assistance I'll be glad to offer my services."

Nan looked her thanks and at last managed to reach the door. There, however, she was held up once more.

"Will you wait, please?" the rector put out his hand. "There are several things I want to talk over with you."

(To be continued.)

S. G. A. Will Give Party After Homecoming Week

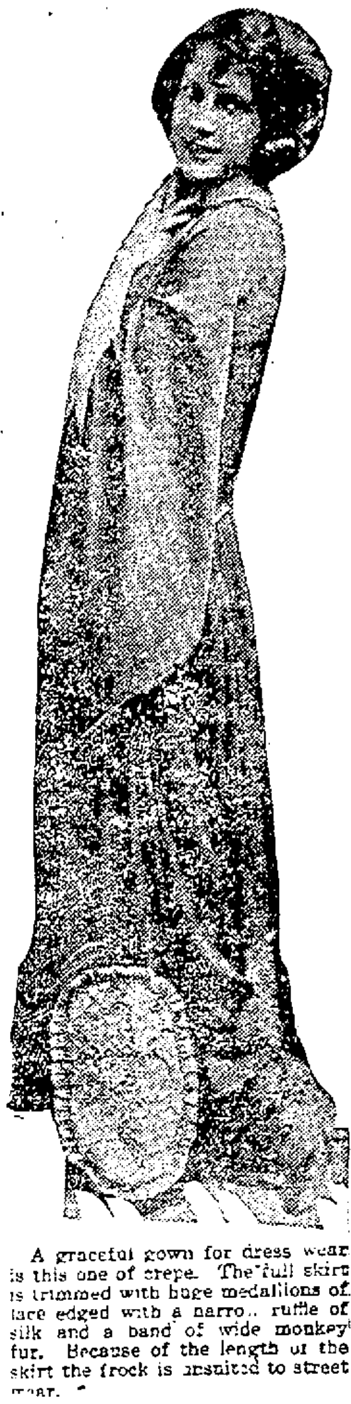
HUGE MEDALLIONS TRIM THIS DRESS



A graceful gown for dress wear is this one of crepe. The full skirt is trimmed with huge medallions of lace edged with a narrow ruffle of silk and a band of wide monkey fur. Because of the length of the skirt the frock is unsuited to street wear.

Interfraternity Council To Meet at Music Hall

The Interfraternity council will meet at 10:30 o'clock this morning in Music hall to discuss plans for Homecoming. Representatives from each house have been invited to attend.

"BOXY" the BOX TURTLE

WORLD COLOR PRINTING CO. ST. LOUIS, MO.

IT is very easy to distinguish a box turtle from other turtles, because the front and rear portions of the lower shell are so hinged that they can be pulled up against the upper shell. If Boxy is attacked, he will draw into his shell and close both the front and back doors. He is then very safe from his enemies. A box turtle will make a very interesting pet to keep in your garden, for box turtles live entirely on the land. They feed on berries, tender vegetation, and insects, and live to a very old age.

Seventy-five Couples Attend 1924 Badger Hop

About seventy-five couple attended the 1924 Badger staff dance at the Woman's building last night.

"This staff party provides an opportunity for all people working on the Badger to become acquainted and thus unifies the entire staff," said Paul K. Robertson '24, associate business manager who had charge of the dance arrangements. "We feel that being on the Badger staff is more than work, it is a privillege and a pleasure which every member should realize."

Dean and Mrs. Scott H. Goodnight and Dean and Mrs. Harry Glickman chaperoned the party. A special song and dance act was given by Jack Cornelius and Robert Costales during the intermission.

Early Middleton History Tells of Old Distillery

Town Once Had Pair Of Pioneer Brewers Whose Troubles With The Government Closed Plant

Next to the railroad station in Middleton is a raggedy looking shack, built of rough lumber, for utility and never for its architectural splendors, which housed one of the earliest moonshining and swindling episodes with which state and federal authorities had to deal.

In the basement of this structure was lodged one of the first distilleries operated in the vicinity. The proprietors were two strangers who arrived in the village one day and proceeded to make some very good whiskey. Little is known of the older man and even his name is lost in the dim records, but his parter was one of the slipperiest and previous bits of humanity that ever went over the Canadian border without looking back.

Louis Watzke, vice president of the Bank of Middleton, has often heard the story of the old distillery from his parents, who were pioneers in the village. According to Mr. Watzke the machinery and other apparatus for the plant was shipped there in 1869 when the country was being settled by the inrush of immigrants and state and national affairs were badly disarranged by the Civil War aftermath.

The times were rough and the arrival of a pair of good brewers whose morals dicered from the code existing in the neighborhood was never noticed until they had made their getaway. The first outlawry that they performed was to make and ship their products without the necessary blue government seals which vouched for the revenue tax being paid. When this cruder method of evading the excise law was frowned on by the federal officers they adopted a more delicate, but somewhat unethical, plan of making the inspector a partner. This was highly successful until the treasury checked up or changed collectors whiih nehessitated a journey to prison for the unfortunate officer and the complete shutdow of the distillery. The crooked machiations of the pair in the whiskey business was a source of never ending trouble to the government until the final destruction of the copper vats.

The elder brewer, however, was not to be discouraged by the premature ending of his chosen profession so he went into real estate where he taught the too trusting farmers that honesty isn't a universal virtue. His favorite easy money method was to buy a farm in the morning on contract and before the abstract me could have all the legal details in black and white, mortgaye it heavily in the afternoon. Several of the pioneer families around Middleton lost heavily through these swindlers and before they could be apprehended and tried they were safely over the Canadian border.

Dr. Bull explains his views thusly: "I believe that Owen can do more things well than any back I have ever seen. He is a human dynamo carrying the ball, can interfere, punt, drop kick, and has few equals as a defensive back. Frankly, I would not swap Owen for anyone."

There is another asset Owen has which helps make him the gerat star he is. That is the unconscious power to instill fighting spirit, harmony and perfect teamwork in the men about him. In addition to being a super-player himself he automatically becomes the mainspring of his team when he takes the field.

While strong beliefs can be filed in behalf of Thorpe, Coy and some of the later stars, Owen's work will stand the acid test of comparison.

The outstanding feature of Princeton's playing against Chicago was its defense. It was this stonewall which prevented the Maroon team from snatching the hard earned victory from the easterners. On their one-yard line, with a few seconds to play and a margin of but three points in their favor the Tiger dug in his claws and held against a line attack such as Coach Stagg can and does develop.

Princeton is the invader in the Harvard game, as it was against Chicago but takes on the Bulldog in Cambridge. The Tigers' next game, that with Swarthmore on Saturday, is a minor one on the Princeton schedule.

Hypocrisy of Big 10 Scored By Richards

Means To Identify Mr. Green In Gridiron Clash Here

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Wisconsin is out for war in the western conference. Angered by the Illinois protest against Don Murry, and more by the criticism of Wisconsin athletics by Director George Huff, Coach John Richards of the Badgers declared today that unless the conference colleges dropped hypocrisy and kept their pledges regarding cleaning up professionalism in the conference, he wanted nothing further to do with them.

Richards also stated flatly that only three conference colleges, Chicago, Purdue and Wisconsin, are keeping the spirit of the agreement, and that he intends first to lay charges against football players recruited by alumni of certain institutions, and then, if the coaches fail to act, to file formal charges wholesale before the conference eligibility committee.

While not mentioning names, Richards meant Michigan first, and after that some others.

Informed today that two of the Illinois team, named by him as having played with Taylorville, and whose right to play is challenged by Wisconsin, were threatening to bring suit against him and the University of Wisconsin athletic board, Richards said: "I wish they would."

"We can bring 50 witnesses to prove that they played with that team. They are dodging in denying that they played last year. But they played the year before. We have proof against all excepting Green. Illinois says it is another Green, but Murry will confront him and identify him when we meet Illinois."

Other athletes played with the team, he asserted, going back and forth from college to play while registered at Illinois, and this fact must have been known.

If Badgers Beat Gophers What About These Boys?

Michigan's three outstanding stars in action. Left end Kirk receiving a forward pass, at left, Half-back Kipke punting and Right end and captain, Goebel, hurling a forward pass.

FIELDING YOST ad his Michigan eleven now seem headed for the "Big Ten" title. And their fight to land the championship bids fair to make the western conference race this season the most torrid in its existence.

While the Wolverines rest—speaking from a conference standpoint—and engage with the Michigan Aggies—Minnesota and Wisconsin are girding their moleskin clad loins for the biggest battle of the week in the conference.

This game, to be played at Minneapolis, is fraught with possibilities. Minnesota has not lost a conference game to date. It has won two. It has, however, a tied game in its record. Wisconsin has gone undefeated to date albeit the team has played but one conference game. The victorious team in this coming game will be in a position to say considerable in deciding the conference race.

The following Saturday Minnesota takes on the championship Iowa eleven. Victories in these two games would not only eliminate the champs and Wisconsin but would put Minnesota in a commanding position in the race.

Should Wisconsin triumph the Madison team will go into the game with Michigan Nov. 18, with the idea of eliminating the now flashing Michigan eleven from the scramble.

The attack Wisconsin has shown to date makes it a favorite at present over Illinois in their coming clash in the week that intervenes between the Minnesota and Michigan games.

The week's layoff for the Michigan team would mean much to Yost were it not that the team plays its greatest rival the Michigan Aggies. Whether or not halfback Kipke, one of Yost's three biggest stars will be in shape for that game is unknown.

Everything considered the Big Ten race is now about as interesting a one as the west has seen in years.

Green Bay to Be Scene of GridironTilts

Invite Undefeated Football Teams of State to Tourney

All claimants for the interscholastic football championship of Wisconsin are being invited by the sporting fans and officials of Green Bay to send their contending elevens here at some date this fall to battle for the premier honors. The State Interscholastic Athletic Association is said to be looking favorably on awarding the tournament to Green Bay as this city is the first to hand in its bid for the classic.

The plan of the committee working for the tournament, is to have all leading elevens throughout the state play one another and by a process of elimination have the championship fray between the two remaining undefeated teams. This arrangement would necessitat at least two or three days of playing

Reports from various towns and cities throughout the state indicate that La Crosse, Superior Central, Marinette and Edgerton rank at the top of the probable competitors while Fort Atkinson, Sheboygan, Waukesha, Stevens Point and Monroe are also represented by especially strong teams.

The success of such a tournament is practically assured, according to sporting officials here. Green Bay and vicinity are staunch supporters of the game and with Marinette and Superior representing the northern part of the state, and with southern Wisconsin teams representing their respective sections, the tournament is sure to draw large crowds if held.

"NOSE PRINT" IS NEWEST WAY TO IDENTIFY BOSSY

Prof. W. E. Peterson of University of Minnesota demonstrating nose print operation.

If "Tessie" the family bossy, has wayward spells and is prone to stay out late o' nights, take nose prints of her nose and peddle them around so neighbors can identify Tessie when she visits them. The "nose print" idea, taken from the fingerprint system of identifying crooks, is being used by the state of Minnesota to identify cows being tested for milk records.

Mendelsohn Is Poor Opponent For Tendler

Victor Breaks Little Finger During Fight; Miss Rotan Draw

MILWAUKEE—There isn't much to write about Friday night's wind-up at the Auditorium. Lew Tendler came, exhibited and collected. That's about all. Of course, Johnny Mendelsohn was in the ring for 10 rounds with the Philly southpaw and earned well his portion of the receipts, because Johnny took a bad beating, which would have been worse if Tendler had cared to make it so.

As fights go, it was a bust. Jack O'Toole and Harry Kahn fighting in the first prelim put more energy into one round than Tendler did in 10. Tendler contented himself with whacking away at Johnny's waist line, and only late in the scrap, when the crowd was on his neck booing him for his half hearted interest, did he wake up long enough to smack Johnny. In the tenth he let loose a right to the jaw that sailed Johnny across the ring, where he hung on the ropes for a brief instant. Tendler didn't follow him up, but allowed him to pick himself off the hemp and come staggering back. Three seconds later the bell rang.

Tendler broke the little finger of his left hand some time during the fight, an examination by Dr. C. W. Wegge, of the commission, disclosed after the bout. Lew complained of the pain as soon as the scrap ended, and the examination was made in his dressing room.

The high school gymnasium has been re-decorated this week and is now in readiness for the coming basketball season. The center court has been done in dark red paint.

The indoor baseball diamond has been marked out in a dark green color. The other floors have been painted black. New ventilators have been installed. The lockers have been replaced with new ones.

Cullen, Navy's Back, is Star In 14 to 0 Win

First Defeat in Years Suffered By Penn State Team

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The Navy goat proved more powerful than the Nittany lion here today, and the Naval Academy football team gave the Penn State aggregation the first defeat it has suffered in three years by a 14 to 0 score. The Nittany lion was more conspiculous before the contest but he could not horn in on the proceedings after the whistle had blown.

Nearly 30,000, among them many persons high in official life, saw the gridiron battle. Mrs. Denby, wife of the secretary of the navy, occupied the box of honor with a number of guests. Admiral Wilson, superintendent of the Navay Academy, and Mrs. Wilson were close by, and there were scores of other notables in the assemblage.

Naturally, the outcome suited the majority of the onlookers as Navy rooters were in great preponderance, but the few faithful who had journeyed from Penn state college had no need to be ashamed of having pulled for a lost cause.

Penn State put up a valiant struggle in a game that was a duel all the way, and which was marked by the greatest line play ever shown in a football contest in Washington.

While Penn State played gamely and cleverly, from the outset to the finish, Bezdek's charges were outplayed, out-generaled, and outkicked, the latter phase of the contest giving the Folwell pupils an edge that told heavily in the result.

Navy scored in the second and third quarters, each time Cullen, the Navy's versatile half back, whose punting was one of the features of the struggle, being the man to cross the line. With Navy holding the ball on Penn States 16 yard mark about midway of the second period and its running game failing, McKee shot a short forward pass to Cullen, who dashed over the line. Barchat place kicked for the additional marker.

In the third quarter Navy lost the ball on downs on Penn State's 18 yard mark. After desperate attempts by the Nittany lions to advance by the forward passing route had failed, Palm, in attempting an off tackle dash, was tackled so hard that he let the ball slip from his grasp and the ever alert Cullent grabbed it as it bounded up and rushed across the line for a touchdown.

Conroy added the extra point by place kick. Penn State got inside Navy's 20 yard line only once during the game. This was early in the first period, when the Nittany lions obtained the ball on a fumble. Two line plays failed, a forward pass was grounded, and then Penn made an ineffectual attempt to drop kick the ball over the bar, it going wild by a big margin. Later on in this quarter Palm tried another boot, this time from the 35 yard mark, but the sphere fell short and rolled across the goal for a touchback.

Short Covering Bolsters Wheat Market Tone

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO—Short covering for the week end in the late dealings today took the wheat market to a recovery of yesterday's slight decline and put the closing range unchanged to 1c higher. The steady tone of the early dealings was strengthened by aggressive buying on reports of improved export demand, forcing all options upward toward the close which left Dec. 1.15⅝@½, May 1.14¼@⅜ and July 1.04¾@⅞.

CORN opened ¼ cent down to ⅛ cent up with Dec. 67¾@⅞ and held steady at that level.

OATS were ⅛ to ¼ cent lower with 42¼@⅜ but quickly sold up to the Friday close and held firm.

PROVISIONS were a shade higher.

Heavy Selling Causes Drop In Stock Price

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Selling orders predominated in today's brief session of the stock market with particular heaviness displayed by equipments, oils, motors, steels and tobaccos, which declined 1 to 4 points Mexican Petroleum showed the largest loss. Advantabe was taken of the bidding uu of the copper group to unload other stocks with the downward tendency brought about by a large volume of profit-taking sales and short selling. Subsequent short covering, together with a rise in Standard Oils further accumulation of coppers and a fair demand for some of the specialties, notably May Department stores, which were carried to a new high resulted in some recent recovery in the final dealings. The close was irregular, sales 500,000 shares.

$50,385,856 Spent in Year for Education

Trained Leaders is Need of Schools, Declares Fitzpatrick

Public education in Wisconsin during the past year cost $50,385,856, of which $39,220,649 was raised in taxes, E. A. Fitzpatrick, secretary of the state board education, poined out in a statement today. The expenditures on schools are increasing annually, the statement said:

"The trouble with a great deal of the discussion of education is that it deals with sentimentalities," said Mr. Fitzpatrick. "We declare, for example, that all money spent on education is well spent; that it is impossible to waste money on education. It is just as possible to waste money on education as it is on anything else. Unless our efforts are organized and intelligently planned, we are just as likely to waste money on education as in business or in the household.

"Take another example. We applaud the statement that education is the means of social salvation; it is the instrument for protecting the industrial structure; ignorance is condemned as the cause of all social evils and knowledge is proclaimed the light-bearer to social welfare. Knowledge is properly commended as the means to individual happiness and social prosperity. But we must not forget it after the applause; we must see that something is done intelligently in organization and administration.

"The pathetic thing is that there are not enough adequately trained men to handle the educational administration of the county, and many of the men who have had the training apparently do not have the capacity to carry over into the actual work the presumed results of their training.

"In 1921 public education cost in this state $50,385,856, of which $39,220,694 was raised by public taxes and the amount is increasing annually. There are employed 18,000 teachers and supervisors to carry on the work of education. There are more than 8,000 school plants doing the work. These plants are worth over $100,000,000. The welfare of every citizen of the state is affected by the results of this educational process.

SELECTION NO. 13

Largo from the New World Symphony, by Anton Dvorak; born in Bohemia, 1841; died at Prague, 1904.

American Music by a Bohemian—The finest symphony employing American themes was written by a homesick Bohemian. Dvorak in his native country had written music based upon the themes of the people which he heard about him. When he came to America for a three years' visit he continued this practice and we are thus richer for the New World Symphony, which is a glorification of negro and Indian music.

Self-Made Musician

Anton Dvorak's father intended to make him a butcher, but the village schoolmaster saw the boy's musical ability and taught him to sing and to play the violin. He was twelve years old when he learned to play the organ, and later entered the Prague Organ School. Then financial reverses came and Anton became a wandering musicia, playing the violin and viola in small orchestras, in theatres, and in restaurants.

All the time he was studying harmony, counterpoint, and orchestration with the works of Richard Wagner as his models. Finally he secured a regular position as church organist and began to compose. His music met with great favor and before long he was called Bohemia's first composer. In 1892 he was called to America to become the director of the National Conservatory of Music in New York.

His Theories

Dvorak believed that a national school of American music would be founded as it has been in other countries upon the native folk music. To prove his theory he wrote his famous New World Symphony. This probably more than any other composition was the means of acquainting the rest of the world with negro and Indian music, and inspired our own composers to utilize this material. In the opening movement of the symphony Dvorak makes use of the negro spiritual Swing Low Sweet Chariot. The main theme of the second movement, the Largo, has not been identified but it is probably an Indian theme which Dvorak heard while visiting the Iowa Indians.

Dvorak was a plain, simple man who was particularly fond of his children, and probably wrote many of his melodies along lines that would please children. Certainly any normal child would delight in this Largo or slow movement. It moves along like a folk song—in fact the main melody (with its interesting pentatonic or five tone scale) has been made into a song with the text beginning "Massa Dear."

A sympathetic critic writes: "The slow movement of this symphony, one of the noblest and most poetic that Dvorak conceived, opens with majestic chords of the brass choir, and these are followed by a haunting melody which seems to have been created for the instrument to which it is given—the English horn. Over the whole movement broods the spirit of forest depths and virgin solitudes." The Largo is recorded on Columbia, No. 5998 and Victor, No. 74631.

Blaine Makes Armistice Day Proclamation

Calls on People to Pledge Efforts Toward Peace

Armistice Day, Saturday, Nov. 11 was proclaimed today by Gov. J. J. Blaine as a "fitting day during which all the people will turn their minds and pledge their efforts to carry out the world's aspiration for peace and civilization security."

Gov. Blaine said that by common consent the day would be a holiday throughout the nation. Following is the governor's proclamation:

"On the eleventh day of this month will occur the fourth anniversary of the ending of the world's most destructive war. It was a war of such magnitude that to reflect upon the loss of young manhood is appalling and staggering.

"A conference on the limitation of armaments was convened in Washington a year ago, at which representatives from the nations of the world were brought together to consider the prospects for the reduction of the armaments or the implements of death and destruction. In less than a year after the close of that conference, the world again was on the very brink of a war which promised greater destruction than the late war. The "next war" was at least temporarily averted.

"It was General Pershing who said that unless there is some solution of the constant problem of world conflicts; civilization is doomed to go headlong down to anarchy and chaos.

"Cooperation in helping to arouse the national aspirations of the people to activity for a world peace is highly to be desired.

"Saturday, Nov. 11, 1922, by common consent will be a holiday throughout the nation. On that day it will be proper and fitting for the people, so far as practical, to gather at their customary places of worship in a special service, and to hold public exercises in the several communities and schools, to venerate the memory of those who died in the World War in the sacred cause of world peace, and on that day dedicate the services of the people to the achievement of international justice and good will, and the attainment of permanent peace.

"Now therefore, I, as Governor of the State of Wisconsin, do hereby set aside Saturday, November 11, 1922, as a fitting day during which. I trust, all the people will turn their minds and pledge their efforts to carry out the world's aspirations for peace and civilization's security."

Big Lot Sale Tomorrow

Sunday, November 5, 1922

Sale from 10 to 12 a. m.; 2 to 4 p. m.

Come out tomorrow and select your lot and then call at my offices within three days and make your purchase.

Remember I am continuing this Sale for the benefit of the many people who were turned away last Sunday, who were unable to meet me and select their lot.

Last Sunday over $15000.00 worth of choice Home Sites were sold in the first two hours of Sale, now don't forget you can save $50.00 on each lot reserved tomorrow.

You can own one of these choice Home Sites by paying $10.00 down, your next payment will not be due until May 1, 1923, but you can pay as fast as you wish.

10 Percent discount on all cash paid. No Taxes until 1924. Just think of it 67 families already living in their homes, purchased of me this year.

The saving each month to these 67 families is over $1600.00, $19000.00 per year or $190,000.00 that these families will save in the next ten years.

If these 67 families would open a savings account in our Banks and deposit each month, the difference between the rent they were paying and the amount of interest they now have to pay to own their own homes, they could divide up at the end of ten years and receive from the Banks over $3000 to each Family, and in addition to that they would have the satisfaction of living in there own home for ten years, and furthermore the chances are the homes they have purchased of me would be worth about two times as much as they paid for them.

Come out tomorrow and I will show you how easy it is to get your home. It's easier to pay for your home, then to pay rent. Come out early because last Sunday there was as many families turned away as there were who were able to meet me and select their home site. Remeber these lots are all high dry choice building lots.

Large lots, facing on wide streets in the heart of the Great East Side. Sale will be at my new home subdivision at the Corner of Marquette and Milwaukee Sts. in the City of Madison, tomorrow Nov. 5.

The Juvenile Court And Delinquency

THE Juvenile Court is an institution intended to deal constructively and mercifully with those problems of human welfare which belong especially to early adolescence. It comes to the rescue of youth when other agencies—the home, the church, and the school—are for one reason or another no longer adequate; and it seeks by intelligent and sympathetic study of every case to bring to bear every assistance that society has to offer for the reconstruction and redirection of young lives.

Because publicity is avoided in this work in the interest of those who come under the jurisdiction of the court, many of our citizens do not fully comprehend the meaning of its procedure, and as a result do not interpret sympathetically its decisions. It must be constantly borne in mind that the work of this court is not meting out punishment, but discovering and removing causes of delinquency; that its work is preventive rather than punitive. In other words, the question the court asks of delinquent youth is not so much "what have you done?" as "in what direction are you going?"

Everyone knows that in cases of juvenile delinquency as in all the other aspects of our social life, nothing is simple. Every case is complicated. Health, heredity, education, home surroundings and training, companions, recreation, vocational training are all factors in every case that comes before the court.

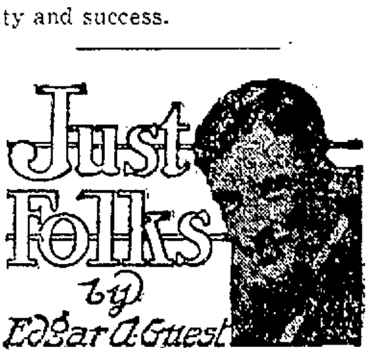
Because the work of this court is so diversified and so complicated (for it deals with cases of neglected and dependent children as well as with delinquency) social workers secured from a recent legislature the enactment of a law providing for the appointment of a Board of Child Welfare to assist the judge in all cases affecting children and youth. In Dane county such a board was appointed by Judge Hoppmann in August, 1919. It consists of T. C. Purcell, county probation officer, who is ex-officio chairman, and three women who serve without pay and who give whatever time and attention the work requires.

This board, therefore, has quasi-legal powers; very often cases are probated to it; it investigates and supervises mothers pension cases; it receives from the police-women information of cases needing help. The county nurses report to it cases occurring in the county of neglected children or children unable to attend school on account of home conditions, or children needing medical or surgical attention. In short this board seeks to lighten the burdens of an over-crowded court by getting at facts in advance of court procedure, of sifting and organizing information and offering suggestions as to the best disposal of cases.

One of the fundamental principles underlying juvenile court procedure is that no record of such cases is given publicity; and no boy or girl appearing before it is to be discredited in later life, nor stigma attached to him by reason of one early misstep. But because concrete illustrations are always most effective, and because, unfortunately, some publicity has already been given in one case we take the liberty of reviewing this case as an interpretation of the work of the Juvenile Court.

This is the case of a girl of 16, who came to Madison from an adjoining town and who upon her own admission had become delinquent; she was rescued and set on the right path by one of our city policewomen. Her mother, her pastor, her chief of police, and a former district attorney of her town were consulted and after a careful investigation in which all the facts were attested in court, she was placed on probation to the policewoman who had so patiently and sympathetically followed up her case. A home was found for her after some difficulty where the utmost kindness was shown her; where she was given the best of training and a chance to attend the vocational school, and though inexperienced in house work, a weekly wage of five dollars. She broke her probation in a moment of childish irresponsibility and was brought back according to law and reinstated in the home whose kindness she was glad again to accept. And with the full knowledge of her mother who came to Madison and was given all the facts in the case.

In other words, here is a striking instance of constructive, careful, patient work in behalf of youth; a work requiring much tact, intelligence, good will and experience. It is the greatest kind of civic and social service and the confidence and cooperation of our citizens should be freely given to those who are carrying it on with such conspicuous fidelity and success.



EVER A BABY

Above the cleaseless clamor and the cry,
The strife for fortune and the loftier place,
Ambition and the urge to scramble high,
Most of us hold a little baby's face.

Here is a fairer dream than fame or gold,
A richer treasure than the stuff we seek,
What wondrous secrets may the cradle hold,
What joyous words those little lips shall speak.

Servants of Mammon! Such we seem to be,
Sordid the tasks which face us every day,
Yet, ever smiling at us, we can see
The babe that soon shall follow down the way.

Here is the purpose of the wrongs we bear,
Here is the urge which sends us after gain,
Gives us the courage to stand up to care,
And sets our teeth to bitterness and pain.

Seemingly seeking gold we spend our days,
Seemingly selfish, mad the pace we make,
Yet most of us are pledged to sordid ways
Not for ourselves but for a baby's sake.

Are Now Spenders

Once Frugal German People Are Demoralized By The Depreciation Of Mark.

"EXCESSIVE spending of money is now the habit of the once frugal German people," says Mrs. Hedwig Leser, instructor in the German department at Indiana university who recently returned from Europe. The chief reason for this change, Mrs. Leser explained, is the rapid depreciation of the mark. In August the mark dropped in value until it took 1,600 to equal one dollar of American money. The daily question of every man and woman in Germany is "How much is the dollar this morning?"

The more frugal Germans invest their money as fast as they get it, she said, in articles of commercial value, such as rugs, paintings, or antiques, but many squander their earnings in eating and drinking.

The housing situation is very acute in Germany at the present time. Rents are so low that it is not profitable to build new dwellings, and old ones are neither repaired nor painted, so that all of the towns bear a dingy aspect. Rents cannot be increased because the government, thru a special committee, controls rent of all houses. Each family is allowed a kitchen and living room, and a bedroom for each member of the family. In some cases the head of the family is allowed to retain one room as a private office. All others must be rented at a price set by the government.

Clothing, china ware, antiques, rugs, silverware and paintings are excessively cheap and it has become a fad among the better class of people to collect the finer pieces of ware. Original etchings can be purchased there at one-thirteenth the price paid in America, Mrs. Leser asserted.

In remarking about the German school girl Mrs. Leser said, "She seems intensely interested in many things, but not in her looks, for you never see a German woman use a powder puff in public."

Marjorie and Eddie had both been told that they must write letters of thanks for the outside Christmas gifts they had received. Marjorie sat down and quickly wrote:

"Thank you so much for the fountain pen. It's what I've always needed."

Meanwhile Eddie was chewing the end of his penholder for inspiration. As his sister laid aside her first letter, he surreptitiously glanced at it. Then he wrote:

"Thank you so much for the handkerchiefs. They're what I've always needed."—Ladies Home Journal.

Little Sidney was allowed to sit up to the table with his fond mama on the occasion of a little luncheon party. His manners were generally very pretty, and mama was horrified when she caught the child stuffing food into his mouth with his knife.

"Sydney," she cried reprovingly—"Sydney, where's your fork? You ought to use your fork!"

"I know, mama," said Sydney plaintively, "but this one leaks awfully."—London Telegraph.

A man who had just opened a store in a strange town was interrogating one of his early customers on the purchasing power of the citizens. "Now there's Deacon Brown," he said. "He has the reputation of being wealthy. Would he be likely to spend much money in here?" "Wa-al" drawled the native reflectively, "I wouldn't exactly say that he'd go to hell for a nickel, but he'd fish around for one till he fell in."—Salt Lake Telegram.

Voice of the People

APPEAL TO EQUITY MEMBERS

To the Present Members of the Equity Society in Wisconsin:

Once we had the most progressive and powerful farmer organization of any state in the Union. We can and must have again. HOW?

Much had occurred to discourage us but, when we stop to think the matter over, we realize that our experiences must be used to guide us for future work if we expect to accomplish anything. We need an organization of, for and by the farmers. This is an age of organizations. Every business worthy the name is organized except the farmers and they will have to organize for self protection, hence we ask the careful consideration, by the delegates to the annual convention at Fond du Lac, Dec. 5-6-7, of the plan suggested by the Iowa State Board of the Equity Society to unite the scattered forces of this once great organization.

Anyone without prejudice and who thinks, knows that it is impossible to restore confidence among farmers of this state in the Equity Society with the present officers in charge. There must be a thorough house cleaning as a first step and it must be done by those now in good standing.

The suggestion fostered by the Iowa State Board of the Equity Society was based upon the condition that the Wisconsin State officers resign and at the same time call a convention of all present and past members in good standing at the time of the 1919 conventions.

While the terms of these officers automatically expire at the end of the year, will they call a convention including all old members who were in good standing at the time of the 1919 conventions? If they do not, do the delegates to that convention desire the restoration of the old time Society strong enough to force an acceptance of the overtures made by the Iowa conference.

The present members have a great opportunity before them to unite the scattered forces in this state. However, there is another condition to be considered and settled before any great amount of confidence can be restored to either old or new members. Reference is made to the financial condition, the financial liability at present and might be in the future. There must be a full detailed and authentic statement as to the financial liabilities.

For the information of those who may want to know, we will state that the invitation coming to those who left the Society to attend the conference at Waterloo, Ia., was wholly unsolicited and knew any thing about it until after the action had been taken and were invited to the conference because those fostering the move would not unite with those now in charge of the Society in this State.

While this move is fraught with a great deal of significance to the farmers of Wisconsin, yet, the settling as to what the Society should do in this matter should be left entirely to the delegates of the convention.

We are asking old members who believe this plan suggested by the Iowa conference to be a reasonable and just one to meet us at Fond du Lac, Dec. 5-6-7 for the purpose of confering with those who wish to carry out request as promulgated by said conference namely, to unite the Equity forces into one society; and for the further purpose of organizing a State Union, elect officers, elect delegates to the National convention and elect a National director.

Headquarters will be announced later.—Anton M. Muller, T. W. Bartingale, C. B. Ballard, John Mentink, J. H. Carnahan, J. Weller Long.

PRAISE FOR DAGGETT

To the Voters of Dane County:

Joe Daggett is out for the office of sheriff of Dane county on the Independent ticket.

I was one of his former officers and would like to boost Joe for the office as I know him and know just what he will and can do if given the opportunity.

When the Animal Train Detachment was ordered at Waco, Joe Daggett was one of about eight hundred selected. I was placed in command of Company "B", Animal Train Detachment. After lining up the men as were ordered and looking them over, I selected Joe Daggett as my first sergeant. He filled the office, living up to my expectations, and I believe that if Joe Daggett is elected to the office of sheriff of Dane county, that the voters of Dane county will not make a mistake in choosing the same man that I did for a responsible position.—Fred W. Heer, Monroe, Wis.

Zoning Reduces the Cost of Living

By zoning, millions of waste from the scrapping of buildings in "blighted districts" may be eliminated.

A "blighted district" is a district, originally developed for residence or industry, in the future of which the people have lost confidence.

The causes of such "blight" are manifold. The most familiar case is that of a residential district into which there have begun to creep various uses threatening rapid destruction of its value for residences—such new uses as sporadic stores, or factories, or junk yards. It is not that a few such inappropriate uses really spoil the district, but that people having lost confidence, start a panic like a "run on the bank." Hundreds of them hurry up to "unload" their properties at a sacrifice for any kind of use, no matter how objectionable to their neighbors—and the "blight" is on! Dwellings worth in the aggregate of millions of dollars for the purposes for which they were built, and physically fit to serve those purposes for many years to come, with a moderate investment in alterations and improvements, are thus annually abandoned to purposes for which they are not fit, or are left to stand practically idle. Expensive public services of water, gas, electricity, sewers, and transportation are maintained at great waste in order to get through the "blighted" district to the more distant and newly fashioned location.

The total economic loss is enormous, and this loss and the risk of it are paid by the people, in the price of house rents or otherwise, as inevitably as they pay the price of the enormous fire losses, either directly or through insurance.

Proper zoning cuts these losses at their source. just as proper building regulations and fire protection cuts fire losses at their source.

Again, miles of streets and sewers and other utilities, such as are ordinarily built when land is newly subdivided for dwellings, need never be constructed if we know that these areas will be devoted mainly to large factories. Industry will be more efficient, as well as homes more wholesome. if kept generally separate. Separation need not mean great distances for workers to travel. Concentration of uses and a fair apportioning of districts should reduce the amount of all transportation and secure economies not only directly for the worker but indirectly in the costs of production and marketing of goods.

If zoning can reduce the cost of living, why not have it?

THE VIEWS OF A WOMAN

[To the Editor]—Mrs. Hooper, democratic candidate for U. S. Senator in a recent speech at Chippewa Falls says she favors "the League of Nations, which is at present made up of 51 nations, and only ones outside of League are Germany, Russia, Turkey and the United States." With France in the League to keep peace why did she send weapons and money to the Turks to fight the Greeks and so start another war that was narrowly averted?

With all Europe seething with war we are fortunate indeed and thankful to Sen. La Follette for the leading part he took to keep us out of the "League of Nations" which he said and rightly, that it was a "league of more wars" which fact we are well aware of. Were we in the League, no doubt our American boys would before now, again be at the beck and call of England to do her fighting, this time to squash the "unspeakable Turk" that she may not lost any of her prestige. Would England have tried so hard to keep peace and settle their present difficulties if they could have called for our American boys and money through the League of Nations? I doubt it. Of course she would then forego paying her present indebtedness to America to use for more war, while we were burdened with more taxes.

But is the "unspeakable Turk" as black as he is painted? Are they not God's people too, like ourselves. Most news comes through London, it should be remembered. Later news through the Associated Press said it was the Greeks that burned Smyrna and not the Turks. Our church leaders say America must enter the League of Nations and enter the world war to make the world safe for democracy and must carry the gospel message to all nation. Yes, carry the message, but you can not do it with an army and navy.

Why does not England and America and other Christian countries take half of the billions of dollars spent for needlessly overlarge army and navy and use it to establish and support government schools or stations and advertize as widely as for army and navy recruits, pay their board, furnish clothes and pay same as army, to train missionary workers, instead of soldiers, to send to educate the "unspeakable Turk" and other heathen countries would not cost as much as war and many precious lives would be saved, much bloodshed avoided, which would be a real progress by civilization and more Christianity, than found in the League of Nations.

A national referendum before every war would be a big step in solving our war problems.. Mrs. La Follette urges all women to work for "no more war".

Senator La Follette says you can't shoot peace and civilization into any nation" which is absolutely true. He says keep out of the League of Nations and all foreign entanglements. But Mrs. Hooper favors the League.

The Wisconsin News quotes from a book on the late war founded on facts written by John Turner, "Shall it be again?" in which he says, "We entered the war because the international bankers wanted war. They wanted war then because the Allied credit had run out. Big Business and Big Finance had been reaping golden harvests since 1914. But now the Allies could borrow no more; the two billion dollars already loaned them by the bankers would be imperiled unless there was a decisive Allied victory. So America must enter to make that victory secure and our Government's credit must be used to keep the war factories and war loans going."

So our boys were conscripted and sent to be killed, our people compelled to buy liberty bonds till it hurt, and our money sent over and spent to kill, to the tune of ten billion, which hurts yet. I don't know where we carried the gospel message or what we the people got out of it, do you? Perhaps England does.

Premier Lloyd George of England, last of the Big Four has fallen, who signed the peace treaty at Versailles and helped frame the League of Nations. Premier Orlando of Italy was first to resign in June, 1919, Clemenceau, French Premier, in January, 1920, and Wilson was retired the next November which shows what the people think. Yet Mrs. Hooper says, "Join the League."

Arthur Brisbane, noted writer, says in part: "A new line up in Europe with France the friend of Turkey, Poland and Russia against England. The next step naturally will be a British step toward Germany, Austria and Italy. Then Europe will be all ready for a new start and a new war." Commenting on the change in the new line-up he says. "The lesson for Uncle Sam is: Let him attend to his own business, keep away from Europe's complications, and let our friends over there fight and borrow from each other." This is also Sen. La Follette's stand and if it's also yours, go on Nov. 7 and vote for him, but if you want soon to send your boys to another war, then vote for the League of Nations and Mrs. Hooper.

Sen. LaFollette is my candidate because he will work for progressive legislation that will benefit the common people and do his uppermost to keep us out of war. Don't fail to cast your ballot for him.—Mrs. Frank Melville, Chippewa Falls, Wis.

FOR MRS. HOOPER

[To the Editor]—I was a resident twenty-one years of Oshkosh, Wis., have been paying taxes twenty-five years and feel a deep interest for the old state. I am a personal friend of Mrs. Jessie J. Hooper, Independent Candidate for U. S. Senator. If you voters want the State to be represented by the best, you will vote for Mrs. Hooper. In my greatest need for a friend and helper she was by my side. She would likewise do the same by her state and its representatives. It is for your own welfare I am sending you this message.—Mrs. Elizabeth W. Crum, Sycamore, Ill.

[To the Editor]—It is the duty of every man and woman to turn out, next Tuesday, to express their views and elect their officers for their government.

The act of voting at an election is more of an act of patriotism than to stand up and sing the "Star Spangled Banner" and it is much more practical.—Progressive Voter.

ETIQUETTE

Q.—Should the gentleman who is sitting next to you at a formal dinner be intoxicated, is it proper to take any notice of his condition?

A.—According to the observance of the proprieties required by good breeding, you should ignore the fact. On the other hand, should he attempt to blow the powder from your shoulders or try to undo your coiffure or headdress with a knife, it is proper to stand up and pointing at him say:

"This bum has insulted me. I am a lady even if I am in society!"
